Having executed the change in economist covering the 404(g) rule, I hope to reassure you that the switch will have only positive effects on our readiness to pre-brief John G and brief Dave R next week. Karen put the following together, and hopefully you all can review and drop in information you have that we don't have. I am wondering about the possibility of sharing this file on OneDrive, although I have no experience editing .ppts online, and don't know whether that's likely to cause more headaches or fewer.

For the short run, Karen's parttime schedule has her working Monday and Tuesdays only, but with enough advance notice, she can rearrange so that she's available on, say, a Thursday. I told her about the briefing for Dave Ross last week, and I'm optimistic that was enough advance notice.
